WASHINGTON.

Cabinet Rumors Still Afloat but Nothing yet Known of Arthur's Intention.

Tyner Has an Interview with the President and Pleads his Cause Backed by Grant.

Several Unimportant Confirmations by the Senate in Executive Session.

ALL GUESS WORK.

WASHINGTON, October 22.—A member of the present cabinet said this morning that his opinion was that Arthur would appoint his cabinet now. He said all the members of the present cabinet who go out are anxious to get out at once, and they have urgently requested the president to relieve them as soon as he conveniently can.

Grant, it is rumored, brought the president information of Morgan's willingness to accept the secretaryship of the treasury, but as to cabinet matters Grant retains his characteristic reticence. On one point, however, he is not reticent. He makes no secret of his friendship for First Assistant Postmaster-General Tyner, or of his sympathy with Tyner in his present fight to retain his position.

THE TREASURY REPORT.

It is evident that Farley, democratic senator from California, does not read the democratic newspapers very carefully, otherwise his attention would have been arrested by some of the innumerable accusations against Senator Sherman and Secretary Windom with which those journals have teemed during the last four months. Attacks are made against Sherman because of the damaging disclosures contained in the report and against Windom for his turpitude in suppressing that document in order to screen the guilty ex-secretary. Farley's amendment was defeated by a vote of 23 to 21, and the original resolution was then adopted without division. Neither Sherman nor Windom has seen the testimony taken. It is voluminous and is of that character which would render its publication in its present unfinished condition an act of injustice. Certain subordinates testified to the performance of work by the direction of other subordinates which work the witnesses believed to have been for the personal benefit of Sherman. No evidence was taken in corroboration or rebuttal. These and similar stories form the bulk of the sensational part of the testimony. All the transactions involved were of petty character and all are doubtless fully explainable in a way that would leave no stain upon the reputation of any high officials whose names have been mentioned in connection with them. Manifestly a committee of the treasury clerks is not a proper tribunal to investigate such matters. If they are to be investigated at all it should be and probably will be by a committee of the senate.

SOUTHERN REPUBLICANS AND THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, October 22.—A delegation of southern republicans representing several states headed by Governor Hawkins of Tennessee, called upon the president this afternoon. They requested him to place in his cabinet some Tennessee representative of southern republicans, and elect for federal offices men of the same class. They stablished that four southern states can be wrested from the democrats before 1884, if proper recognition is given to faithful republicans in Tennessee, Virginia and Florida. They did not name any one for the cabinet, but would be well satisfied with General Longstreet. The president heard them with attention and thanked them for their call and said he would remember their wishes, but gave no assurance of specific action.

THE TREASURY INVESTIGATION.

The treasury investigation report will not be presented to the senate until Monday. Accompanying it will be an explanation statement of Assistant Secretary Upton and Chief Clerk Powers.

STILL GUESSING.

WASHINGTON, October 22. It is stated with considerable positiveness that only two cabinet nominations will be made at the present session of the senate and they will be Morgan, of New York, secretary of the treasury, and Howe, of Wisconsin, attorney-general. There is evidently some guessing however for it does not seem to come from presidential authority. Prominent republicans who back Longstreet maintain that Longstreet's friends have pretty good assurance that he will get a cabinet position.

GUITEAU'S ASSOCIATE COUNSEL.

WASHINGTON, October 22.—In the criminal court to-day Judge Cox assigned as associate counsel in Guiteau's case Leigh Robinson.

MORE CABINET RUMORS.

WASHINGTON, October 22.—It is conceded that Lincoln will remain in the cabinet, but with another portfolio of attorney general. One of the present cabinet says that Longstreet will be in the next cabinet, James will continue for a time at least. Grant arrived this evening and saw the president. A prominent stalwart says that Grant warmly favors Conkling for the cabinet, and a few believe he will go in, and his name would not cause a surprise here. It is believed that Conkling himself is the only obstacle to his appointment. It is believed that Grant comes on some mission connected with this and possibly brings Conkling's acceptance. At 8 p. m. Grant left General Beale's residence and took Logan and Cameron into his carriage and went to the president's room. Soon after Allison and Edmunds arrived, and these gentlemen have been with the president all the evening, probably considering the cabinet. They are all stalwarts. Grant favors Beale as secretary of war.

THE FOREIGN GUESTS.

By order Secretary Blaine, Wormly will arrange for the German and French guests next Monday night one of the most elegant receptions ever given in Washington.

DAVIS' REPUBLICAN VOTE.

To-day is believed to be an indication of his future purpose to act with the republicans.

TYNER IN DOUBT.

Tyner failed to get from the president to-day the slightest intimation of what impression he has made in presenting his case and will talk again to-morrow. The stalwart senators do not rally around Tyner as he failed to get a single Grant delegate into the Chicago convention with all his patronage of the department.

A CABINET SESSION AND TYNER.

WASHINGTON, October 22. A session of the cabinet is being held at Senator Jones' residence this afternoon. It is stated that First Assistant Postmaster-General Tyner has prepared a long statement of the action taken by him in the Star route contracts. This statement he will present to the president on Monday next.

DUDLEY VICTORIOUS.

The opponents of the confirmation of Dudley gave up the fight and admit he will be confirmed. Southern senators refused to put themselves in the attitude of voting against a crippled union soldier, and Dudley was confirmed by a decided majority. The opposition was weak and the southern democrats voted for him.

HOWGATE IN COURT.

WASHINGTON, October 22.—Captain Howgate to-day entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of embezzlement, and was committed to jail in default of $30,000 bail, his counsel promising, however, to come into the court with securities next Monday. During the arguments in the case as to the amount of bail to be required the district attorney said: "The amount embezzled as charged in the indictment is $91,000. The indictment does not cover all the charges of embezzlement. I do not think I am violating any official confidence in saying that the grand jury has already indicted Howgate for forgery."

Subsequently Captain Howgate's counsel called the attention of the court to a fact that Howgate's bond was given to abide the judgment of the court not the action of the grand jury, and Justice Cox ascertaining such to be the fact directed the execution warrant for Howgate's arrest suspended, and the forfeiture of the bond set aside. This leaves Captain Howgate at liberty on the original bond given by him.

THE NEW ORLEANS MINT COINER.

NEW YORK, October 22.—The Herald's Washington special says: It is conceded that a brother of Senator Jones, of Nevada, will be nominated for coiner of the New Orleans mint. Dauty, of New Orleans, who was suggested by Senator Kellogg, withdrew his claims as soon as he heard that a friend of Jones's would ask for the place.

SENATE CONFIRMATIONS.

The senate confirmed W. W. Dudley, commissioner of pensions; Robert Crowell, of Minnesota, deputy 6th auditor; Geo. Wilkinson, of Nebraska, Indian agent of the Omaha and Winnebago agency, Nebraska; Capt. Montgomery Sheard, chief of the bureau of ordnance in the navy department; Capt John G. Walker, chief of the bureau of navigation; Commodore Jas. H. Spotts and Jas. A. Nicholson, Pennsylvania, admirals; Capts. Sam'l R. Franklin, Edward G. McCauley and John C. P. Dekraff, commodores.

IN THE SENATE.

The president nominated Edward Whale, of California, as coiner of the United States mint at San Francisco. The president of the senate pro tem. laid before the senate a communication from the secretary of the treasury in response to a resolution adopted March 24th, calling for a complete list of books, papers, pamphlets, &c., published by the various departments from March 1879, to March 1881. The communication was laid on the table and the senate went into executive session. When the doors opened the senate adjourned.

WINDOM'S RETIREMENT.

WASHINGTON, October 23. Secretary Windom called upon the president this afternoon. Replying to the questions on the subject of his retirement, the secretary said he could not tell when he would be relieved, but expected his successor would be appointed before the election of United States senator in Maine.

TYNER CALLS ON ARTHUR.

WASHINGTON, October 22. Tyner in an interview with the president in relation to his talked-of retirement from office reached no conclusion. The interview will be renewed to-morrow or Monday. Judge Tyner to-night said he could not properly say what took place until the matter should be definitely settled.

A QUARREL COMPROMISED.

A German in Pueblo Threatens to Kill His Wife, but Kills Himself Instead.

PUEBLO, Colo., October 22.—At 11 o'clock this morning a German named Detlef Rehder committed suicide in South Pueblo by placing a pistol under his chin and sending the ball through his brain. The act was committed nearly opposite the city hall, on the public street, and was so neatly and expeditiously performed that in three minutes from the time of firing the fatal shot the man was stretched upon the ground a corpse. At the inquest held by Coroner Cowles it was ascertained that domestic troubles had caused the victim to make his hurried exit from this world. He was a married man and his wife is now living in this city, and the pair had indulged in a violent quarrel over the custody of their four year old child. Rehder deserted his wife two years ago, and worked a short time in the mines near Del Norte, but contributed little or nothing to her support. On Friday he attempted to steal the child but was prevented by the mother, and then he threatened to kill her but finally compromised the matter by killing himself. The deceased had on his person about five or six dollars in silver and three letters written in German, one to his daughter in Germany, one to Willie Rehder at Del Norte and one to his wife here. The action of the authorities in permitting the body to lie on the street two or three hours after the inquest was held exposed to the gaze of the public was simply disgraceful and should be condemned in the strongest terms. Such an act of heartlessness and brutality might be tolerated by the Utes, but it reflects no credit upon a community that pretends to civilization.

THE GUITEAU CASE.

Scoville Describes His Predicament.

"I was surprised to find my name given in your affidavit in the Guiteau case as that of one of the experts by whom you expect to prove the insanity of your client, and for money to defray whose expenses you made application."

Scoville replied:

"I came into this case only a few days ago without knowledge of a single person in the east whom I might call an expert on insanity. Firmly believing myself in the insanity of the prisoner, I determined, if necessary, to act on the presumption that any competent expert in such cases, upon full investigation, would sustain my opinion. Unknown persons, entire strangers to me, have written me several letters suggesting the names of experts. Such a letter was received by me, signed "A Friend," dated September 20, suggesting the names of yourself and Dr. Fitch with the assurance that they would not hurt my case any. Your letter states I have asked for money to pay such expenses. It is true I have made application to one individual whose high position and reputed wealth led me to hope he would aid me. No answer has been received nor a dollar from any source. If I had the means to pay you or any expert I would ask your attendance in Washington before the trial to make a careful investigation of the case. Due preparation for trial on my part can only be made in that manner, but as I have not money to pay for such services the only course open to me is to summon what experts I can hear of at a venture and under law require their attendance on the trial and then depend upon their regard for truth and justice to state their convictions uninfluenced by popular clamor."

IRELAND'S TRIALS.

The Situation Still Unchanged.

THE LONDON POLICE READY.

LONDON, October 22.—Five hundred policemen in Dowling street ready for action in case of disturbance at the league meeting in Trafalgar Square. The secretary of the land league of Great Britain telegraphed Egan in Paris not to come to the Hyde Park meeting Sunday as he might be arrested.

THE TWO LEAGUES.

DUBLIN, October 22. The land league has collapsed. The ladies' league seems likely to be troublesome.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH

blames the government for permitting the land league to fix its fangs upon Ireland. In regard to the future he says: No further remedial legislation should be attempted till order is effectually restored. A firm and strong repressive hand is wanted that would make the people feel that government exists and would enforce order.

THE CLERGY DISAPPROVE.

DUBLIN, October 22. The clergy generally approve Archbishop Croke's letter protesting against the manifesto of the land league.

The home manufacturing association passed a resolution of sympathy with Parnell and other imprisoned leaguers. Notices are posted in the neighborhood of Boyle, Roscommon county, threatening death to tenants if payment of rent is made.

The military and police evicted several tenants in Boyle to-day. The mob afterwards held an indignation meeting and wrecked the property belonging to non-leaguers.

COUNTY DUBLIN UNDER ARMS.

DUBLIN, October 22.—County Dublin is proclaimed under arms. O'Gorman, proprietor of the Imperial hotel, and O'Brien, members of the Clan Wille land league, were arrested at Monoghan. The police stopped the weekly league meeting there.

BOYCOTTING IN AMERICA.

BROCKTON, Mass., October 22.—At the close of the O'Connor meeting here to-night, the presiding officer, Father Clark, read an extract from a local paper condemning Parnell's course, and advised that the paper be boycotted.

Fears for a Steamer.

NEW YORK, October 22. The steamship Bolivia of the Anchor line, which sailed from London on the 8th, has not been heard from. There are about 400 immigrants and 100 cabin passengers, mostly returning tourists, on board, and many inquiries are being made at the office by friends of the passengers.

AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

The Colorado Champions Vanquish the Pueblo Nine by a Score of 12 to 6.

The Season Closes Without the Colorado Springs Club Suffering a Single Defeat by a State Organization.

Some Personal Notes on the Players and a Complete Score of the Game.

With the exception of being slightly chilly, no better day than yesterday could have been chosen for the match game of ball between the J. B. Orman nine, of Pueblo, and the Denver & Rio Grande club, of this city. Some time ago arrangements were made between these two clubs to play a series of three games and the first game was to have been played at Pueblo two weeks ago yesterday, the D. & R. G. nine going there for that purpose, but owing to some misunderstanding which existed among the Pueblo players the game did not come off. Properly the D. & R. G. boys won the game by default, but they did not so claim it at the time. A few days following the time set for the Pueblo game, arrangements were completed for a game here yesterday between the two nines, since which time the Pueblo boys have been scraping together some pretty good men with whom they confidently expected to demoralize the Colorado Springs nine.

They came here for that purpose yesterday afternoon but returned home defeated, while the D. & R. G. boys added another victory to their score and carried off the championship of Colorado.

At two o'clock, the time set for the game, both nines were upon the ground and about two hundred spectators had assembled. The game was not called until 2:30 at which time fully five hundred spectators were present. The Pueblo boys brought with them a man to umpire the game but as some dissatisfaction was expressed on the part of the Colorado Springs boys Dr. F. D. Sanford was substituted in his place. In the toss for choice the Ormans won, which sent the D. & R. G. nine first to bat.

First Inning—Kent was the first to pick up the willow opening the game with a good two base hit and by error of Dines covered all the bags and scored a home run. Truffley batted a high ball which was muffed by Burns and he got his first, afterwards getting second on a passed ball.

Rockwell secured first on a safe base hit, sending Truffley to third and he himself taking second on an overthrow. Newman retired on three strikes and McIntyre took first on a good hit to right, afterward going to third on an error of Burns, bringing Truffley and Rockwell home. Donnelly went out on first by a ground stroke to Maher and McIntyre was caught napping on third.

O'Conner opened the game for the Pueblo nine by going out on three strikes and Knowdell knocked to Newman and was put out at first. Kessler took first on called balls, Maher following with a base hit which gave him first and sent Kessler to second. Phelan batted a grounder to Rockwell terminating the inning and leaving two men on base.

Second Inning—Thornell was captured on first by a short knock to third. Austin took his first by a safe one to center and Macklin struck out. Kent sent a high foul to O'Conner on first which was taken in thus putting out the side.

Hibben batted to Rockwell and retired, Dwyer tipped a light one to Kent and did not reach first. Burns pounded the air three times in succession.

Third Inning—Truffley went out on a fly to Hibben in the left field. Rockwell retired on three strikes, and Newman fouled out to O'Conner on first.

Dines got his first on an error of Thornell's in left, and was afterward put out while trying to steal second. O'Conner hit a hard one which came near not stopping at all, and he slipped upon the home plate with comparative ease amid the cheers of the crowd. Knowdell struck out and Kessler took first on called balls. Maher made an easy first, and stole second. Phelan batted out to first, leaving Kessler on third and Maher on second. Score 3 to 1 in favor of the Denver & Rio Grande club.

Hibben retired on first by a short stroke to Donnelly, as did also Dwyer. Burns got first, but was left there by Dines' foul to Truffley.

Fifth Inning.—Austin made a base hit and took first, where he was caught napping and put out. Macklin got his first on a safe base hit. Kent secured his first and Macklin took second. Truffley made a three base hit, bringing in Macklin and Kent, and by an error of the right fielder got home himself. Rockwell batted to second and was put out at first. Newman raised a foul fly to Knowdell which he took in handsomely, thus putting out the side.

O'Conner batted to McIntyre and was put out at first. Knowdell retired on a foul bound to Truffley. Kessler did the same, the latter being the prettiest running catch of the game. Score 6 to 1 in favor of the Denver and Rio Grande.

Sixth Inning—McIntyre knocked a shot in to second which reached first before he did. Donnelly did exactly the same thing, and Thornell retired on three strikes. Maher managed to get first by an error of Donnelly's, Phelan following with a fly to Newman. Maher was run out between first and second. Dwyer made his first but was left there by Burn's fly to Newman, the latter making an excellent running catch.

Seventh Inning.—The game still stood 6 to 1 in favor of the home club, and the visitors were becoming discouraged. Austin opened this inning with a safe base hit and went to second on a passed ball. Macklin made a remarkable hit, sending the ball over right fielder's head, making a home run and bringing in Austin. He fell at first and still covered the home plate before the ball reached the diamond. He was heartily cheered.

Kent as usual made a strong hit and took his first. Truffley hit the ball for three bags and brought in Kent. Rockwell went out on a foul bound and Newman followed with a good two base hit. McIntyre tipped a ball to Kessler and got first on an error. Donnelly took first on an error of Dwyer's and Thornell struck out, thus adding four more runs to their score.

Dines got first on error of McIntyre's. O'Conner was put out at first by McIntyre and Knowdell flied out to Thornell in left. Dines getting in a run by a wild throw from left. Kessler made a safe hit and took first. Maher sent a very pretty grounder to left by which he got third and brought in Kessler. Phelan went to first on a one bag hit which tallied Maher. Hibben took first on called balls, stole second and got third on a passed ball. Dwyer flied out to "Rock" on first. Score 10 to 4.

Eighth Inning—Macklin got first on an error and passed on to third on a wild throw. Kent hit a three bagger which brought in Macklin. Truffley made a strong stroke taking his second and bringing in Kent. Rockwell secured first and Newman did the same by forcing out Truffley on second. McIntyre did likewise by forcing Rockwell out on third. Donnelly was put out on first.

Kent's arm had by this time weakened and he changed off with Rockwell. Burns fouled out to Kent. Dines was put out on first and O'Conner retired on three strikes.

Ninth Inning.—Thornell struck out. Austin was put out on first by Dyer. Macklin took first on a safe hit, and Kent sent a fly to Hibben but he muffed it. Truffley flied out to O'Connor leaving Kent and Macklin on bases.

Knowdell made a base hit and took first. Kessler hit the ball for a home run bringing in Knowdell. Phelan got first by a long strike to right which Macklin could not reach. Hibben and Dwyer both retired on three strikes, this terminating the game.

SHORT STOPS.

Denver & Rio Grande club, champions of Colorado.

Kent's home run on the first bat rather opened the eyes of the visitors.

It is to be hoped that a club will be organized in Colorado next season that can give our boys some little amusement.

Donnelly was not exactly at home on third base, but as a general player he, is one of the best in the champion nine.

The Pueblo men professed to have a large amount of money to venture on the game but they failed to show any of it.

Dr. Sanford as umpire gave general satisfaction, his decisions in every instance being fair and impartial. He gave no occasion for complaint.

Truffley can hold his own with many of the professional catchers of the day and although he was the cause of defeating our boys as the back stop of the Omahas he now takes pride in being recognized as one of the Denver & Rio Grande nine.

O'Conner, Burns and Dines of the Pueblo nine were all good average players, the former making the longest bat and the cleanest home run in the game.

Austin, formerly of the B. & M. club of Omaha, is a valuable acquisition to the Denver & Rio Grande nine. He played here for the first time yesterday.

McIntyre takes more interest in a game of ball than any other man that ever played in the diamond. Mac can always be depended on and is never caught napping.

Maher of the Pueblo nine can be classed as a chronic kicker. He found more complaint yesterday than all the other players put together, and at times made himself very obnoxious.

Dwyer of the Pueblo nine showed himself to be a very efficient short stop. He has but recently come from Syracuse, New York, where he has for years been identified with the clubs of that city.

Capt. Tuttle, the manager of the D. & R. G. champions, although not much of a ball player himself is a successful manager. He too deserves to a great extent the credit for keeping up the organization.

Phelan and Kessler occupied the same positions in the Pueblo nine as they did in the D. & R. G. club some time ago. They are both good players and materially strengthen any nine with which they play.

Macklin is the smallest man in stature in the Colorado Springs nine, but when it comes to swinging the bat he can hold his own with the best of them. He made a record yesterday that he can well be proud of.

Rockwell does the first base act up to perfection and as a pitcher he cannot be beat. He has lately been offered inducements to play next season with two of the best professional nines in the country, but will not accept.

Horticultural Society.

The El Paso County Horticultural society met in the opera house last evening.

In the absence of the president Mr. Hodgman was called to the chair and Major McAllister was elected secretary.

Mr. Gosson offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the first half hour of each meeting be devoted to an informal conversation on general topics and thereafter the time be given to the discussion of some stated subject.

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Cossun read an article on the four popular white varieties, viz.: The Duchess, Pocklington, Prentiss, and Niagara, from Seed Time and Harvest. Also an article from The Country Gentleman. The latter article classed the Duchess first, the Prentiss second, the Niagara third, and the Pocklington last.

Major McAllister said that some of the varieties named had some of the blood of the tropical variety of the Vinifera in them. He believed that we should confine ourselves to those of the order Labrusca as that was the hardy grape of the temperate zone.

Mr. Newcomb, of Denver, said that the best grape that can be grown here is the Chasselas de Fontaine, blue; next the Crevelling, then Lindley (Rogers No. 9), then the Salem (Rogers No. 53); there are other good varieties, but those named can be depended upon. All vines must be covered in winter. Get the best varieties and always cover. Mr. Newcomb said that they should be covered with earth and, nothing else. He was not sure that grape vines should be trimmed. He allowed his vines to run on the ground and merely raised them up off the ground. He thought that Colorado would be admirably adapted to grape culture.

A long and very interesting discussion followed respecting the proper method of pruning grape vines, the general opinion prevailing that they should be pruned in the spring and not in the fall. Mr. Newcomb said that he had had no experience with Moore's early grape, but from what he knew of it he was inclined to think that it was a big thing for this country. The Crevelling was an early good grape. The Concord is good but it is rather late. We need an early grape here. The Crevelling is the best black grape we can grow.

Major McAllister called attention to the fact that the leaves on all our fruit trees remain green until they are frozen stiff on the trees every year and do not ripen as they do in the east; he was inclined to think that this was one of the disadvantages we labor under in Colorado. Mr. Newcomb thought that this did not hurt them.

As to the best material for covering grape vines, raspberries, blackberries, &c., it was conceded that nothing was so good as earth. Strawberries, however, should be mulched with leaves, straw or other litter. A long discussion then ensued touching raspberry culture. Mr. Newcomb thought that the Clark was the best berry we can grow. They are tender however and must be buried in winter. The Gregg was the best black cap.

Mr. Cosson read an article from the American Garden on a new currant, the Moore's Ruby. This is a cross between the cherry and white grape, and is highly spoken of.

Mr. Newcomb thought that the cherry and white grape currants are the best.

Major McAllister preferred the red Dutch to any others.

Mr. Irving said that he grew some currants the past year about as big as cherries. They were the white grape.

The discussion continued until nearly 10 o'clock and was exceedingly interesting. The discussion was participated in by Messrs. T. E. Johnson, Hodgman, Snyder, Ege, McAllister, Cosson, Irving, Hogue, Clark and Schnup.

Mr. Snyder exhibited the Soy bean grown by him, which excited much interest. He also exhibited several bunches of large red onions grown from the seed which were very fine, also a fine sample of white globe onion.

The attendance was large and this was decidedly the best meeting that the society has yet had. On motion the meeting adjourned to meet again in two weeks.

An Address to the Voters of Colorado.

Under a provision of the constitution of the state of Colorado, the legal voters of the commonwealth will be called upon to select a site for the permanent location of the state capital at the general election in November next. It is also provided that should no place receive a majority of all the votes cast at said election, then in the people shall at the next general election, a year later, decide between the two places receiving the highest number of votes at the first election.

The subject is one that clearly challenges the thoughtful consideration of every voter in Colorado. The convenience and safety of our people for all future time depends, perhaps, very much more upon the exercise of a wise judgment in the settlement of the question under consideration than most voters may upon first thought conceive.

What requisites or qualifications should a town possess to justify its selection as a site for the state capital? It should be located as near as possible in the center of the state; it should be accessible to the people of all sections of the state; it should be removed from the corrupting and distracting influences of large cities; it should be healthful, well-located and attractive, a fit representative of our beautiful state, and it should be able to furnish accommodations for not only such public officials as are necessarily compelled to live at the state capital, but for the members of the legislature, and all who are occasionally called to visit the capital on business.

Colorado Springs possesses these requisites in an eminent degree. Located close to the base of the mountains, at the foot of Pike's Peak, only ten miles south of the center of the state from north to south, and thirty miles from its geographical center, it certainly satisfies the almost universal demand that the capital of the state should be near its center.

No town in the state is so accessible to the people of all sections. Its situation on the main line of the great connecting link that unites the railroad system of the north to that of the south, and on projected lines of railroad, in process of construction, fast approaching the city on the east and west, enables it to fully comply with this important condition.

It is almost unnecessary to speak of its healthfulness and the beauty of its situation. It is generally acknowledged to be the most healthful spot in a state noted for the salubrity of its climate. Hundreds of the citizens of Denver, Pueblo, Leadville and other towns, come hither to enjoy its prospects, and to escape the cold of winter and the heat of summer, the extremes of which are seldom felt here.

Colorado Springs is essentially a city of homes. It neither aspires nor expects to become a great commercial or manufacturing center like Denver in the north, or Pueblo in the south, and for this reason seems peculiarly fitted for the capital of the state. The people of the nation, and the several states, with very few exceptions, have carefully avoided locating their capitals in large and busy centers, the corrupting influences of which would certainly exercise a baneful effect upon legislation. So generally has this custom prevailed that it now has the force of established precedent. New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, have frequently tried to become the seats of government of their respective states, but their aspirations have invariably been defeated by a wise and considerate people. The thoughtful consideration of every voter in Colorado is called to this important point.

The Colorado Springs company has set apart a tract of ground ten acres in extent, on the beautiful plateau in front of the very center of the town, which will be donated to the state should the capital be located here. No more beautiful nor suitable grounds for a capitol building can be found in the state.

Adjoining the grounds donated to the state for capitol purposes there is now being erected one of the largest and most elegant hotels in the state, which with the other hotels and many large boarding houses in the city, will furnish the best and most ample accommodations for all who may have occasion to live in, or visit, the state capital.

To the other advantages above enumerated may be added, freedom from mud in winter and dust in summer, magnificent streets, parks and shade trees; good gas; an ample supply of the purest water; excellent educational institutions, and proximity to the celebrated mineral springs at Manitou.

Owing to its central location, the selection of Colorado Springs, should, and doubtless will, be a powerful agency in abolishing the sectional feeling that has always existed between the northern and southern portions of the state, and which has so frequently threatened to destroy the homogeneity of interests and fraternal feelings that should characterize the people of the great commonwealth of Colorado.

In conclusion, we respectfully urge upon our fellow-voters to abstain from throwing away their votes upon localities that have no chance of success. No mere temporary local interest should be considered at this time, for the question now submitted to the calm judgment of the people is one of more vital importance to the state at large than to any particular city or locality.

The Chronicle does not take any position on the capital. We understood Leadville would try to stand second.

The Democrat of Leadville is now straight out for Denver. It did a good deal of coquetting first, but was finally won.

The Denver Detective association, Denver News, and Denver & New Orleans road have formed a combination. We tremble to think of the denunciations of the Democrat at the unholy alliance of its party with a railroad.

The Pueblo Chieftain is out with an address in favor of its city for the capital. It contains the following paragraph:

The folly of selecting a point because of its attractions as has been demonstrated in many of the older states, and it becomes important that Colorado should avoid any mistakes in this direction, and locate the capital at a commercial and manufacturing center. The argument advanced that the capital seat should be removed from the corrupting influences of the large and busy centers is fallacious, as experience demonstrates that those seeking to control a legislature, will pursue their purpose wherever the capital may be located.

We are not surprised that Pueblo should urge that it would be a mistake to select an attractive place for the state capital. Usually however a state has a pride in its buildings and they certainly look as well with fair surroundings. But we wish more especially to notice the latter sentence in the above. The capitals of states recently located have been almost altogether in the northwest. Without an exception these capitals have been located away from commercial and manufacturing centers. The northwest has made this mistake and keeps on making it, if mistake it is. The "older states" and "experience" demonstrate that the very opposite of that affirmed by the Chieftain is true. It is true that lobbyists will ply their avocation in small towns, but not as easily as in large towns. The legislature loses its prominence in a large city and is susceptible and influenced in hundreds of ways which would be impossible in a small city. The precedent which all our sister states have established should be heeded by Colorado.

Another feature of the address is that it appeals for votes for Pueblo and not for South Pueblo. It looks as though the compromise plan of locating the capital in South Pueblo on the mesa has been given up. If so the Pueblos will make a divided fight. The advice that voters should vote for some place south of the Divide is timely and good. The contest should not be settled this year.

The Colorado Springs GAZETTE attempts to defend the British government in its arrest of Parnell, because, as it claims, he is a demagogue and unworthy of the confidence of his people. This may be true, but even if it is, it affords no excuse for the action of England. The right, legal or inherent, to exercise the freedom of opinion, is enjoyed by demagogues and patriots alike, and an illegal or a violent act, affecting the liberty of the subject, cannot be excused on account of any weakness or illness of the victim.—[Leadville Herald.

The Herald mistakes the issues. Mr. Parnell is not arrested for uttering his opinions, but because he is inciting the Irish people to insurrection and advising them not to obey the laws. Undoubtedly Mr. Parnell is amenable to law. In this country he would not have been arrested, but in England there is a more central government and she chooses to execute such laws.

Colorado Springs is advertising its address in the papers of the state very generally. Pueblo's "Committee of Safety" is also hard at work. Cañon City has a committee at work and so has Salida.—Denver Alone has neither committee nor emissaries at work.—[Denver Republican.

Yet Joe Wilson and Judge Miller have been down to fix Las Animas and Major Thompson to fix Bent county, and numerous other agents are running all over the state. The item above must have been written by a fresh hand.

Boston is still undecided about having the World's fair there. It is said that $5,000,000 must be subscribed, and while not doubting that this is possible, the Herald of that city wants to know what the fair will do for the people. "Like all grand projects of a temporary character," says that paper, "it must necessarily involve a great expansion of facilities which will not be required afterward, and the cost of which must be recorded in the expense account."

The mixed ticket nominated yesterday at Denver is a cowardly performance on the part of the democracy. The democracy seems to be making itself a sort of a tail to the Denver & New Orleans kite.

The Pueblo address is for Pueblo as the state capital. It seems therefore that the compromise on South Pueblo is off.

THE NOVEMBER HARPER.

With the November number of Harper's Magazine is concluded the sixty-third volume, and the publishers after reviewing their past efforts to please call attention to some of the papers which will be contributed to the coming numbers of the new volume. Among the contributors will be William Black, Lucy Hooper, Joseph Hatton, Thomas Hardy, George Lathrop, Wirt Sikes and many others, whose names are a sufficient guarantee of the future excellence of the magazine.

The November Harper is fully equal in literary merit and artistic excellence to its predecessors. The opening article by William H. Rideing is entitled, "In Cornwall with an Umbrella," and is illustrated by C. S. Reinhart. Mr. Rideing excels as a descriptive writer, and in this article he gives a full and interesting account of this breezy English coast. Howard Pyle, a writer and artist, has a poem, particularly appropriate at this time called "Tilghmans Ride from Yorktown to Philadelphia," which Mr. Pyle illustrates in his characteristic manner. The papers of Joseph Hatton on "Journalistic London" are continued, the present one dealing with the "London Times," of which a full and illustrated account is given. There are also notices of noted London journalists, including John Walter, the proprietor of the "Times," John Delane, the editor for so many years of the paper, Dr. Russell, the famous war correspondent, Edmund Yates, the successful novelist and founder of "The World," and Henry Labouchere, who is now a member of parliament and proprietor and editor of the London "Truth." Mr. Hatton's account of Labouchere is very interesting, giving as it does a full account of his life when he lived in America, Mexico and almost every city of Europe. Another article which will attract general attention in this number of Harper's is that on Dean Stanley by Thomas Hughes. It is delightfully written, and gives many interesting facts concerning the noted and beloved man. No one is perhaps better able than the writer of this article to give an interesting article, for Mr. Hughes first met Arthur Stanley, as he liked to be called, when he (Hughes) was a lad at Rugby, and in after life knew him intimately. A full page portrait of the late Dean is also given.

It would be hardly possible to speak fully of all the good articles in the number, however, and we will simply mention them. They are as follows: "Ohio's First Capital," by Alfred Mathews; "The Land of the Midnight Sun," by John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies," written on the basis of materials furnished by Du Chaillu's book with the same title. This is illustrated by engravings from Du Chaillu's work. "Tehuantepec and the Eads Ship Canal," by John Dillon; "A Week in a Dug Out," by W. W. Thomas, jr., a Canadian hunting adventure; and short stories by John Esten Cooke and Virginia W. Johnson, both of which are good, especially that by Mr. Cooke entitled "The Sumac Gatherers." The usual editorial departments are fully as interesting as ever, and in the Literary Record will be found full reviews of the latest publications.

For sale by E. P. Howbert & Co.

LITERARY NOTES.

Mr. Archibald Forbes is writing letters from Yorktown to an English paper.

The late Dr. Holland's most remunerative work was his "Life of Lincoln," from which he netted $20,000.

Following their "Longfellow Leaflets," Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have brought out "Holmes Leaflets," in prose and verse.

Mr. Alexander H. Stevens, who was vice president of the so-called "Confederacy," is preparing a volume in which Mr. Jefferson Davis' corns will be heavily trodden upon.

James R. Osgood & Co. have in press a life of Ralph Waldo Emerson, being a critical and analytic survey of his literary life, with quotations and copious extracts from his writings by George Willis Cooke.

In the simultaneous publication of Paul B. du Chaillu's "Land of the Midnight Sun" in several countries and languages, Harper & Brothers will have the American edition, in two volumes, profusely illustrated.

Under the title of "Common Sense about Women," Lee & Shepard will publish for Col. T. W. Higginson a selection from his contributions to various journals on the same which interests him so deeply, and which he has notoriously treated with more candor and discrimination than any person who has written anything like so much about it. A portion of the matter will appear for the first time.

Rapid Telegraphy.

London Times.

When it comes to be a question of transmitting hundreds of words a minute, it is evidently impossible for a clerk to make the necessary symbols with sufficient rapidity. With a Morse instrument a skilled operator sends twenty-five words a minute; with a Hughes printing instrument sixty words. Some device must be employed to transmit or to receive a greater number of words on the same wire. The French are working in the direction of multiple telegraphy, which I have already described. The English and Americans use automatic transmitters. These are the invention of Wheatstone. A strip of paper must first be punched with a succession of holes in three rows. The middle row is to regulate the motion of the strip by pins in the circumference of the feeding wheel of the clock train. The holes on the right hand are to send a positive current, those on the left are to send a negative current immediately after it. The reason of this is that in very rapid working the temporary charge of positive electricity given to the wire must be removed by a negative charge before the wire will be free to receive another current. The interval of time between the positive and the negative charge determines whether the signal is a dot or a dash. For this reason, the holes corresponding to the negative current are more or less in rear of the others. This is done by a special machine. When the paper is punched it is driven through the transmitter by clockwork, and two pins rise up at regular intervals to pass through the holes which have been punched. If they are able to pass through the hole, and so complete their stroke, a contact is made by a system of levers, which sends a positive or negative current. The receivers are simply Morse receivers of a highly improved type. They owe their superiority mainly to the perfection of the mechanism. On long lines relays or transmitters are placed at intermediate stations to send on a stronger current. Thus, in the long line from London to Aberdeen there are four stations, Leeds, Newcastle, Edinburgh and Dundee. Relays are placed at Leeds and Edinburgh. There are four sets of wires on this arrangement working every night between London and Aberdeen and two sets working day and night. The average speed is from 150 to 200 words a minute, and they sometimes send 300 words a minute. The system is largely used for press work, and in the course of a single night 500,000 words are often despatched from London.

Ladies on Horseback.

London News.

Every one remembers the passage in Thackeray's books, in which he remarks on the personal interest men take in talking about horses. Take any two grooms pacing behind their masters in the park, he says, and you may safely conclude their speech is about horses; racing, betting, or breeding, or rearing, but still about their favorite animals. Thackeray made no new discovery in thus saying, but he stated a truism, such as all the world recognizes, and is ready to quote. The interest the women take in the same subject is different, and follows a varying line, but it is scarcely less eager. The woman who rides at all in any sense that is further than being placed on the top of a horse, and sitting there while he canters a couple of times round the row, thinks more about her performances on horseback than of any of her other daily achievements.

Most women who drag on their stirrup hold on by their hands. Miserable is the animal thus managed, and piteous is the aspect of the rider. In fact, there is no riding at all, but getting on to a horse's back and clinging there. Unknown to such an equestrian is the blood feeling of conscious security, the sense of perfectly attained equilibrium, the delight of guiding and controlling a spirited, intelligent, and obedient steed. Not many sensations are more keenly pleasant, or more surely minister to self-complacency than the light touch on the curb by which a too spirited horse is reminded he must obey and the gradual relaxing to the snaffle which tells him that only obedience is required of him. Nothing of this can be known to the heavy-handed individual who keeps his or her seat by holding on to the reins and waging a perpetual combat with the aggrieved animal. The ladies of to-day have a great advantage over those who rode twenty years ago in the present fashion of short, tight habits. The long sweeping garment which used to be considered indispensable, and the holding up of which when not on horseback was a studied art in itself, is now very properly regarded as not only useless, but dangerous. How women hunted in it is not easy to imagine. The pictures which have come down to us of ladies on caracolling steeds with long manes and tails, and habits fluttering about the horses' heels, would seem to indicate that they never ventured out of the safe precincts of the park. On the other hand, riding-skirts may be made too short for grace. As we hinted before, the tiniest women take in horses and horsey affairs is largely tinctured with a personal feeling. They are well aware that they never look so well as on horseback. That they bestow more care and anxiety on their get-up for the hunting-field than men do on their cords and tops we are not prepared, nor is it necessary, to say. It is not a question of comparison. But they certainly share the love of the horse and his associations inherent in mankind to their full proportions.

M. G. Maspero on the Recent Discovery at Thebes.

M. Maspero begins by describing the place where the mummies were concealed, which is probably the tomb of a certain Queen Ansera, whose mummy is among those recently discovered. The entrance to this excavation is situated behind a fallen rock, in an angle of the cliff a little way to the south-west of the temple of Dayr-el-Bahari, and is so cunningly contrived that one might pass it twenty times without noticing any outward sign of its existence. The ground rises considerably to the foot of the cliffs, and the mouth of the pit is about 60 metres above the level of the alluvial plain. A perpendicular shaft descending to a depth of 12 metres leads to a gallery 74 metres long, at the end of which is a sepulchral chamber measuring 7 metres by 4. The height of the gallery varies from 1 metre 10 centimetres to 5 metres. A sketch of the cliffs showing the fractured rock and the position of the shaft, a sketch-map of the locality generally, together with a ground plan and section of the excavation, accompany this part of the memoir. M. Maspero then goes on to say that his attention and the attention of the late Mariette Pasha had long been drawn to the fact that large numbers of valuable objects were constantly flowing from Egypt into Europe, many of them bearing the same royal names and belonging to the same periods. Between the years 1872 and 1877 no less than five royal papyri made their appearance, four of which were the funeral papyri of queens. Of these, two were purchased for the Louvre and two for the Boulak Museum. The fifth—a superb specimen—was bought by Colonel Campbell, an Englishman, and proved to be the funeral papyrus of Pinotem I. Other objects came to light bearing the name of the High Priest Massahirti, etc. "Mariette, like myself," says M. Maspero, "had come to the conclusion that the Arabs had found some royal tombs. During my stay at Thebes in March and April last (1881) I ordered the arrest of one Abder-rassoul, to whom a variety of testimony pointed as possessor of the secret. He was imprisoned at Kenah (but released, and it was not till the beginning of July that one of his brothers decided to reveal all to Daoud Pasha, the Mudir of Benah." Daoud Pasha hereupon telegraphed to the khedive, and the khedive dispatched a steamer to Thebes, having on board Herr Emil Brugsch, keeper of the Boulak museum, and Ahmed-Effendi-Kemal, acting secretary and interpreter. M. Maspero warmly eulogizes the devotion and energy with which these gentlemen performed their work, and states that by the end of July the whole treasure had been safely packed and transported to Cairo. The number of mummy cases discovered is 22, of which seven contain mummies of kings, nine mummies of queens and princesses, five various personages of distinction. "The presence of all these royal mummies in a single tomb would be very surprising," writes Professor Maspero, "if we did not know that the necropolis of Thebes was pillaged towards the end of the 20th Dynasty, and that the reigning Pharaohs were consequently obliged to take every possible precaution to insure the remains of their predecessors against profanation and theft. It, therefore, became necessary to remove the sarcophagi of those Pharaohs from their sepulchers in the valley of the tombs of the kings, and to hide them in some place duly prepared for their reception. Several hieratic inscriptions written upon the mummy-cases of Amenophis I., Thothmos II., Seti I., and Rameses give the dates of transfer, and also of the periodical inspections to which the depot was subjected. It was the priest-kings of Amen, from Her-Hor to Pinotem III. who peopled the cavern at Dayr-el-Bahari. One of the seals impressed upon the shattered door of this hiding-place yet bears the titles of the high priests of Amen inclosed in a royal oval; and this testimony confirms the testimony of the hieratic inscriptions before mentioned."

DENVER POLITICS

DENVER, October 22—The democratic county and city convention in session here today nominated the following mixed ticket

For sheriff, S S Austin, democrat

State senator, C P Elder, republican

Mayor, George Frick, democrat

County clerk, C F Lemer, democrat

Coroner, C K McHutton, democrat

City treasurer, W J Kinsey, democrat

This ticket was the result of a conference between twelve republicans consisting of Gov Evans, Theodore F Brown J F Brown and others with a committee of twelve leading democrats including W H Loveland, T M Patterson and others which was held this morning

Trial of E J Dawson

DENVER, October 22—The trial of E J. Dawson, former deputy postmaster of the Leadville postoffice, for embezzlement, was commenced before Judge Hallett today A large number of witnesses were examined The trial will probably be concluded on Monday.

Democratic Nominations

GEORGETOWN, October 22—The democratic county convention met this evening and made the following nominations

Clerk and recorder, Frank E. Peck, of Empire

Treasurer, Thomas Quayle, of Brownville

Sheriff, John C Devalle, of Georgetown

Assessor, Talbot Reynolds, of Georgetown

THE GARFIELD MONUMENT.

What Has Been Done in Cleveland.

COLUMBUS, O October 22—In response to inquiries from abroad as to what Cleveland is doing for the Garfield monument fund the committee replies that it confidently expects that Cleveland will raise $50,000 Of this amount thirty subscriptions of $1,000 have been made Other contributions in sums of $500 and less will be taken In addition to this, the city is being thoroughly canvassed for dollar subscriptions and satisfactory responses are being received The committee has already sent to the country over 20,000 lithograph certificates in reply to requests. The subscription in Cleveland is in addition to the amount reported as received by the treasurers of the fund.

THE FLOOD.

No More Breaks in Levees but the Water Very High.

ST LOUIS October 22—A report from Hannibal says the Mississippi rose six inches in the last twenty-four hours. No break occurred in any levee in this vicinity. The levee in many places is but a few inches above water but still stands firm The break near Rockport is constantly growing wider and the water already covers a great part of the land owing to the overflow caused by the break in that vicinity Refugees from Illinois continue to arrive in great numbers, moving their stock and household goods. Gangs of laborers continue to work at the weak places in the levee, and the Wabash railroad pluckily keeps up its efforts to prevent the overflow The river is now a foot and six inches below high water mark and twenty feet six inches above low water.

THE THEATRICAL SEASON.

Dramatic Notes in the Far East.

NEW YORK, October 22—Adeline Patti is expected to leave Liverpool to-day for America. Several of her staff are already here One of the principal editors of Figaro accompanies her on her tour of this country. Mapleson's opening of the Academy of Music promises a successful season During the week "Lohengrin," "Carmen" and "Mignon" have been produced with Minnie Hauk in the leading parts Negotiations are pending between Henry E Abbey Jr Schoen and Hayman and the Grau syndicate for the combination of the two companies for California in consideration of $65 000 cash and receipt Hayman plays Othello Lotta and Wood Mary Anderson begins her engagement at Booths in "Pygmalion and Galatea" Jenny Lee starts soon for San Diego to fulfill a six weeks' engagement with Magoon in "Joe and other plays

Abbey is building a new stage upon novel principles at the Boston Park theatre which is expected to obviate the necessity of long walls It revolves upon rollers and while one scene is presented to the audience in front of the stage the hands can get another behind On the fall of the curtain a scene revolution of the stage effects a complete transformation It will probably be tried before the close of Barrett's present engagement

Kathleen Corbett began an engagement at Patterson's Saturday last in a new play, "Clotho, or all For Love" written by Mrs J Duke Rose

J H Emmett will soon present his new play, "Fritz among the Gypsies" at Haverly's Fourteenth Street theatre

Royal Youth" will be produced at Daly's tonight with John Drew, Digby Bell Charles Leclerc W J Lemoyne Adele Clark, Laura Joyce and others in the cast.

The Boston ideal company are at the Academy of Music Brooklyn, preparing Pia Mascotte, The Czar and the "Carpenter and Tinsmith"

St. Julien and Trinket

PHILADELPHIA, October 22—St Julien and Trinket made a good start at 3 45 p m Trinket was a trifle ahead at the quarter post, and he soon increased the lead to one length but at the half mile post this was reduced At the three-fourth post a blanket would have covered the two horses but on the home stretch Trinket broke badly and came in some three lengths behind Time, 2 17

In the second heat the California gelding again got the best of the start and at the quarter led by a length which was only slightly reduced at the three quarter post On the homestretch Trinkett broke badly and came in the air in the first heat St Julien won by about three lengths in 2 17

In the third heat St Julien still had it all his own way up to the three-quarter post when Trinkett took the pole but the mare couldn't stay and again broke giving St Julien the third heat in 2 20

Garfield Services in Mexico

CITY OF MEXICO October 22—The Garfield memorial services organized by Governor Fernando and the city council were the most impressive held in Mexico The attendance was extremely large Hammakin, a Mexican representative city said "The City of Mexico lays a crown of laurels on the tomb of the virtuous citizen soldier and statesman, Jas A Garfield, and expresses its profound sympathy for his widow and orphans

Between the ball game and the matinee our streets presented rather an animated appearance yesterday afternoon

M E Church services in Court House hall at 11 a m and 7 30 p m Sunday school at 9 30 a m Rev W L Sloat, pastor.

General T. F. Hunt of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe was among the many strange faces seen upon our streets yesterday.

Mr Alex Bonnell who spent some time here two years ago this winter, came down from Denver yesterday morning to call on his many friends

Fannie Louise Buckingham's horse, James Melville, created considerable attention yesterday, falling while being driven through the streets by his jockey

Mr Abe Roberts, editor of the Mountaineer, left home to-day from his rather extended visit east. He has been absent about two months.

Usual services at the Cumberland Presbyterian church to-day at 11 a m and 7 30 p m Subject for the evening discourse "Does the Bible teach a Universal, Unconditional Salvation?"

The members of the Y M C A invite you to attend their gospel meeting to be held in the Court House Hall to-day at 4:15 p m Mr E Curtis will conduct the services Subject. Prayer.

Mr Tom Atchison returned yesterday from a visit to Utah The object of his trip was to get some of the contracts on the Denver & Rio Grande extension in Utah, but he reports that most of them have been let to the Mormons

Uncle Bailly got so much interested in the debate on the question of whether the negro or the Indian has the most cause for complaint this week, that he forgot on Friday night to turn on the gas lights in Court House hall.

The lectures on the types and shadows of the Jewish tabernacle will be continued in the Christian church this morning and evening. In the morning lecture will be shown the "Fundamental Cause of All Religion," with an analysis of the typical scheme of redemption The evening lecture will consist of a typical view of the atonement. These lectures have thus far been well attended, and all who are interested in the study of God's dealings with men are cordially invited to attend

The Hon C C. Holbrook, who is the republican candidate for district attorney in the Fourth judicial district, came to Colorado nearly five years ago He immediately engaged in the practice of law at Castle Rock He was chairman of the republican central committee of his county for two years and turned his county from a democratic into a republican county He is a good republican and a successful lawyer He has a large practice and has won as large a per cent. of his cases in the courts as any lawyer in Colorado. Mr. Holbrook is a native of Virginia but resided in Kentucky where he first studied and practiced law before coming here. He is a young man and tilted to the success that has come to him so early in life.

The morning train on Saturday brought to this city the family of Mr Frank Dunford Mr. Dunford has large mining interests in and around Leadville and is engaged in the practice of law in Pueblo Believing, however, that Colorado Springs is the most desirable residence place in the Centennial state he last week purchased the residence property lately owned by Mr I R Cosson, on Weber between Huerfano and Cucharas streets Mr Cosson, retains control of the fine strawberry garden connected with his late residence, and will in the spring remove many of the most promising novelties and new varieties therefrom to the large grounds on the corner of Uintah street and Nevada avenue, which he purchased from the North End Improvement company in July last Mr Cosson decided upon plans for his house upon Thursday last, and will commence building within two weeks.

The Buckingham combination pleased their audience much better last night in Mazeppa than on the previous evening in the 'Child Stealer' Miss Buckingham is popularly acknowledged to be the best Mazeppa on the stage and she has improved greatly in her acting since here last spring Her support is much better and the play of Mazeppa as rendered last night was far superior to her previous efforts here, Notwithstanding the base ball game as a counter attraction in the afternoon last Lynne at the matinee was well attended.

The board of registration in precinct six adjourned Friday night, but six and one-half was in session yesterday The total registration in precinct six in 1880 was 557 registration this year, up to the present time is 660, of which 218 are new voters In precinct six and one-half, the names new and old copied on the registration book were, up to last night, 784 against 622 who voted in 1880, showing quite a gain There are quite a number in both precincts who cannot be vouched for, The board will sit again in precinct six, Tuesday November 1st

Engineer Darby, of the Denver and New Orleans road, was in the city yesterday.

Book Binding, Valuable.—Below we quote some of the recommendations given to "The History of the Two Americas" The New York Times says, "It is a complete reference library of American history of the highest character, invaluable alike for the student, the general reader and the people." No American will be without it the usefulness of such a work is too plain for comment, and cannot be overrated

The Star Spangled Banner says, "It is the cheapest book ever published in America We emphatically commend it to all who want the best and the best, and fully complete history of America.

Hon George Bancroft says, "It is a library itself of high authority, and very valuable.

Containing as it does an account of the administration and assassination of President Garfield, and the census reports of 1880, establishes its claim of being "complete to the present day."—
